```
d.set
         ean
                                                                                                                                                                                                            Unsets the feature of the object.
                           eUnset(EStructuralFeature feature): void - EObject elsSet(EStructuralFeature feature): boolean - EObject
                                                                                                                                                                                                            If the feature is many-valued, the value must be an EList and that list is cleared. Otherwise, the value of the feature of the eSet(EStructuralFeature feature, Object newValue): void - EO object is set to the feature's default value or the meta eSetDeliver(boolean deliver): void - Notifier class's default value, as appropriate. If the feature is unsettable, the modeled state becomes unset. In any case, the
* <!--
* <!--
                                                                                                                                                                                                            feature will no longer be considered set.
* @gen
*/
                                                                                                                                                                                                            Parameters: ublic
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                feature the feature in question.
         ret
                                                                                                                                                                                                            Throws: IllegalArgumentException - if the feature is not one the meta class's features, or it isn't changeable.
                                                                                                                                                                                                            See Also:
                                                                         Press 'Ctrl+Space' to show Template Proposals
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Press 'Tab' from proposal table or click for focus
The plant of the first of the f
```